Eve Lewis

Eve Lewis started as Head of sparqs in July 2010. Previous to this she managed the membership services at Heriot Watt University Students Association.

At Heriot Watt she managed the Students Association's non commercial activities including their extensive work on academic representation. This included working closely with the University on areas such as developing the Learning and Teaching strategy, responding to national surveys, supporting students involved in subject level internal review, supporting the student involvement in ELIR and coordinating the development of a school officer and class rep system. She contributed to discussions on furthering student engagement in the emerging quality enhancement framework back in 2003 and participated regularly in national developments through the Association of Student Union Managers and National Union of Students.

She is an accredited trainer with over 15 years training experience within the education sector.

Her role at sparqs includes working closely with sector agencies including Universities Scotland, QAA, HEA, Education Scotland, NUS and Scotland's Colleges. In partnership with these agencies sparqs supports the engagement of students in learning and teaching issues and quality frameworks. Her post at sparqs provides strategic direction and management support for a team involved in a wide range of activities. This includes training and support for representatives in institutions, consultancy support for institutions taking forward their student engagement activities and facilitating opportunities at a national level for the development of thinking about student engagement and the sharing of practice.
